TRACE OF MOTHER LOST BY POLICE

Woman Who Abandons Tot Leaves Washington.

PASSES THROUGH STATION

Evidently Departs on Pennsylvania Railroad Train-Has Little

Efforts on the part of Detective Muller, of the Sixth precinct station, and Agent Douglas, of the Board of Children's Guardians, to apprehend mother of the baby abandoned in Mrs. Julia Dye's home, 108 Second street northwest, is futile. It is believed the hunt for the woman would lead to so other city if the matter was pressed.

A representative of The Times yester day went over the route which is be lieved to have been followed by the woman, but no one seemed to know her name or where she hailed from. She was described as a prepossessing brunette about twenty-three or twenty-five years old, wore a gray hat, brown waist, three-quarter black coat, black skirt, and a bow of lace at her throat.

On Thursday afternoon while Amelia Dogged was standing at the front door of the furnished-room house conducted by Mrs. Weeks, near the corner of Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, she saw the strange woman com ing acress Pennsylvania avenue toward Arrived at the door the woman carrying the sleeping baby brushed by Miss Dogged and walked un the stairs. Miss Dogged asked what she wanted and the visitor replied that she was in Washingion on important business and wanted a room for the night.

Mrs. Weeks, a benevolent old woman, was called in and informed of the woman's errand. She said none of her rooms were heated and the visitor asked if Of the divorce problem Mrs. Schoff there was some other place near by. She said she was going to Philadelphia on

When night came and the woman did not put in her appearance Mrs. Dye became su / clous, and informed Police-man New kirk, and had the child removed to the home of District Nurse Mrs. Brown, at 414 I street northwest. There it was cared for and will be kept until a permanent home can be found for it by Agent Douglas.

At the Indiana avenue boarding house it was learned that the woman had food, nor had she appeared at the lunch room opposite the oarding house. Yesferday afternoon when Mrs. Dye Yesferday afternoon when Mrs. Dye went into the room to make up the bed she opened the front windows, which let in a flood of light. While straightening out the covers her hand touched the glass milk bottle left by the mother of the child. Wrapped around it was a note, with five cents, for the purchase of milk for the baby.

The missive was written with a lead pencil on common ruled paper. The writing was not of the best and did not bespeak any great amount of neatness, refinement, or education.

The language was also commonplace, but the words read as though they came

The writer asked that the child be The writer asked that the child be named Madeline, after its mother. She said Mrs. Dye would hear from her again. In the note the woman hinted that her husband had become too intimate with another woman, and she came to Washington. For what purpose she did not say. She also said that her trouble would ultimately drive her to suicide. This is believed to have been inserted for the purpose of enlisting sympathy or creating an effect.

Leaves the City.

Mrs. Dye read the note, but it shed no new light on the child's identity, and she did not tell the police of finding it.

There seems to be no doubt about the fact that the woman is married and that she was a stranger in the Capital. While in Mrs. Dye's house she asked. "Is this northwest? I might want to go out and if I do I wouldn't like to lose my way." This points to the fact that she was un-acquainted with the sections and streets of the city.

raised and paid during the past year. The work of your president in this particular has made heavy demands on her time, but if the country is to maintain high and pure standards of marriage, and if the best opportunities for the development of childhood are to be secured, the Mothers' Congress cannot ignore conditions which degrade womanhood and wifehood, and which give to children faise ideas of home and marriage."

The Divorce Problem.

"The Mothers' Congress has also taken the following morning and needed the room in which to rest up for the trip. The visitor engaged consented to take the visitor to Mrs. Dye's house. Mrs. Dye was paid $1 in advance for the room for one night. She says the woman did not have much money in the smail pocketbook which she carried, but there was a railroad ticket in it. The room was near the front door, and the woman stepped into it, removed her coat and hat, and laid the child on the bed. She fixed a bottle of milk for the Infant, while Mrs. Dye built a fire in the room. The visitor engaged the room about 2 o'cleck Thursday afternoon, and ten minutes later sne asked Mrs. Dye to direct her to a place where dinner could be obtained. She was referred to a boarding house at Second street and Indiana avenue. Twenty minutes later Mrs. Dye went into the room to see if the fire was burning and discovered that the woman had left the house.

Prior to her departure she informed Mrs. Dye that the child was three weeks old, and that she had another one, a boy of thirteen months, at home, but she did not say where her permanent abiding place was located.

Mrs. Schoff also reminded the congress of the "excellent work" done by the organization for extending juvenile courts, and the probation system in the United States. She said the President "has compiled with our request to give it his indorsement in his message to Congress."

Miss Jane A. Stewart, of Philadelphia, chairman of the press committee, made a brief address, calling members' attention to the importance of having the assistance of the press in extending the congress' territory.

Other reports were submitted by the committees on education, literature, and legislation.

In another section of the building were model nursery and playroom. Each has been completely fitted up not only according to the prescribed ideas of the congress, but in a most attractive and engaging way. The nursery is provided with two small beds, a dresser, dressing table, chairs and a comfortable couch. A trained nurse is in constant attendance and divides her time between the two rooms. Pictures, toys, bright rugs and many other attractive features contribute to the comfort and enjoyment of the little ones.

Another most important report will be that of John B. Larner, chairman of the committee on parks and reviewing stands. It is doubtful whether Mr. Larner will be able to attend the meeting himself, as he is sick in bed with a bad case of grip. However, his report will probably be submitted.

Upon this report, giving the receipts from the sale of privileges and seats on the reviewing stands, will depend the question of whether or not there will be a surplus in the treasury after all expenses have been paid.

Treasurer Ailes' Estimate.

Treasurer Ailes figures that the expenses of the inauguration will approximate $79,000, and they may be a little more than this after all bills have come in. To meet this, Mr. Ailes already has on hand $58,637, derived from the ball She dropped her belligerent tone and and supper receipts and from the sale of tickets to the concert. The treasurer is counting upon receipts to the total of $82,000. Therefore Mr. Larner will have to show about $24,000 as the result of the sale of privileges, seats, stands, and chairs after the inauguration.

The inaugural medals have all been distributed to the chairmen of the variout committees, and can be secured by members of committees only upon renous churchman and citizen, has been quest to the head of the committee to which they belong. A large number of committee books have also been distributed.

May Repeat Concert.

Chairman Foster unofficially announce ed today that it is quite possible that the inaugural concert may be repeated on the evening of March 22, in Convention Hall. The concert has received so much commendation that Mr. Foster has been requested by large numbers of per-sons to repeat it. Mr. Foster consulted with Lieutenant Santlemann, of the Ma-rine Band, this morning, and has also conferred with several of the leaders of the chorus in regard to a repetition. The inal decision will be reached in a day or so. Music lovers in Washington hope Mr. Foster can make satisfactory ar-rangements.

Official History.

Otto A. Sontag, publisher of the official inaugural history and souvenir, has announced that he is now ready to fill orders for the edition de luxe of the program. This edition sells for $5, and has been pronounced by General Wilson and others connected with the inaugural committee the finest thing of its kind ever gotten out. Copies can be secured by calling at the office of Mr.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Spent Hundreds of Dollars Trying Every Doctor in Neighborhood, but Kept Growing Worse All the Time—Completely and Permanently Cured by Cuticura at Expense of $8.

"I have been tempted a number of times to write to you a voluntary letter telling how Cuticura Remedies saved the life of my mother, Mrs. William F. Davis, living in Stony Creek, Conn.

"Some years ago she had Eczema, the worst case I have witnessed in my life. She was able to sleep only a little, scarcely ate at all, and how she kept alive was a wonder. She had tried every doctor in the neighborhood, but kept growing worse all the time. Her head was a mass of sores, the ears swollen and painful, and the disease spread until it appeared on almost her entire body. It affected her hands and wrists and made housework out of the question. So bad was her condition at this time that she despaired of a recovery.

"Finally, after she had spent hundreds of dollars without receiving any benefit, living in misery for years, with hair whitened from pain and suffering, and body terribly disfigured, a friend came to her and told her she would get the Cuticura Remedies if she would use them. But mother was discouraged and without hope. She said, 'Nothing will cure me, I must die with it.' However, she began using the Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent, and when she had used three bottles of Resolvent, five boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and ten cakes of Cuticura Soap, she was entirely cured. Her hair returned to its natural color, dark brown, and she looked ten years younger. I have written telling you of this because I feel it a duty to my fellowmen to let them know of this wonderful cure by Cuticura.

"Having mother's case in mind, I have often recommended Cuticura to those suffering with humors. While living in Hartford, Conn., I had the pleasure of knowing a number of friends who were wonderfully cured by Cuticura. "Here in New York I have just been to see a young man who has been sorely afflicted with a terrible humor. He tells me that Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent cured him. I could give you the names of six or seven others for whom Cuticura has worked remarkable cures. Now, feeling that I have done my duty, I shall be pleased if you will publish this letter."
